Biography

The Mount Zion Fellowship Choir is a vibrant and charismatic group of young people from the Greater Toronto Area focused on conveying songs that speak to God as both salvation and consolation. This group's passion in delivering this message by blending hard-hitting traditional gospel with a contemporary flare, has platform them to reach both an adult and youth audience alike. Such conviction and excitement as presented by this group, has heightened their soulful renditions of mainstream gospel to that of traditional hymns. This 22 voice choir and 3 member band ranging from 18 to 35 years of age, strives to add an eclectic and unique spin to gospel music as so to reach beyond the confines of this particular musical genre. This versatility has aided in the longevity and success of this group. Coupled with that, Mount Zion Fellowship Choir's keen understanding of their central purpose to touch people by ministering and imparting the gospel of Jesus Christ through song has become a distinctive feature that is associated with this group. Their act of acknowledgement and obedience to this purpose over the years have aided in many people being uplifted, encouraged and strengthen. The choir's commitment and their understanding to their purpose for being in the choir and as a Christian are the two elements are congruent thus enabling them to perform effectively.

For almost nine years under the leadership of Jerome Cawley, who has been directing choirs for more than 13 years in the music department within his church organization. He has also been privileged to teach gospel music in the Toronto District School Board and various church organizations and non-profit associations.

The Mount Zion Fellowship choir has performed in various settings and events, including Mel Lastman's Square, Kitchener Women's Prison, Mississauga Community Park, Corporate Gala's and at numerous churches within the province. As such the aspiration of the Mount Zion Fellowship Choir is to present their inspirational and hard-hitting ballads to a broader listening audience.
